Transmission (\square) and extinction spectra of A virgin matrix (\square) and doped with 5% PG (\circ) or with 7% PG (\times). For doped homogenous samples, the microcavitation origin is obviously different as the cracking timescale is superior to the diffusion timescale. Using gravimetric analysis, we found a correlation between crack.

Stunning Opal from Virgin Valley, Nevada This area is famous for the rare and fabulous black opal, known to occur in only two places on Earth: Virgin Valley, Nevada and New South Wales, Australia. It is evident that the percentage weight loss in the virgin matrix was comparatively less than that of BFPP composites and BGPP hybrid composites, indicating that the fibers degrade initially by providing hydrophilic surface for microbial adhesion. Higher weight loss of BFPP than BGPP after 6 months of composting confirms.

The yield strength and strain of virgin PP decreased gradually, while its Young's modulus increased slightly with increasing CaCO₃ loading. These phenomena were less pronounced for the recycled matrix. Incorporation of nanoparticles to virgin matrix produced an increase in tensile stiffness and ductility, when good.
